In the summer of 2003, Monkey Design developed its first product, a "retro matchbox." Because the most famous early matchboxes in Taiwan were those bearing the "Monkey Brand," the company hoped its designs could be as enduringly ingrained in users' minds as the "Monkey Brand" of matchboxes. Thus, Monkey Design was founded . Design Philosophy: Design for fun.

The Counterattack of Elementary School Textbooks

Inspired by retro characters from elementary school textbooks, they began creating the "Elementary School Textbooks' Counterattack" sticker series. The main characters are a little boy named Zhiming and a little girl named Chuntao. The illustrations and text use childlike humor to satirize the irrationality of the adult world, hence the use of the word "counterattack." Subsequently, they began collaborating with many organizations and started commercializing and licensing their work.

Embroidery Forest

A single stroke, a single line, boundless creation—Littdlework, a collection of exquisite embroidery.

In 2015, Littdlework's designer, Grandma Meteor, traveled alone from Hong Kong to Taiwan, exploring the island and discovering its true beauty: sea and mountains, warmth and affection, charming streets and vintage objects. Using healing illustrations as her needle and exquisite embroidery as her thread, she recorded the warmth of the local culture.

Over the years, Littdlework has created her Art Forest, featuring animal games and seasonal landscapes. She transforms birdsong and butterflies into textured jewelry and everyday discoveries into creative trinkets, inviting everyone to explore the forest trails, follow the embroidery patterns, create together, and share the beauty of everyday life.

Perhaps 30 years later, you will meet Littdlework again, now a white-haired grandma, still passionate about life and creation. Explorers, don't forget to come back and listen to Grandma Meteor's stories. Each line and stroke tells a tale of the infinite universe, without end, waiting for you to take it away...

為台灣依舊美好的人事物 掌聲鼓勵

Palm-grown grains

We've donned the soul of agriculture and grasped the essence of cultural creativity. Zhang Sheng Grains, a brand that looks, touches, and tastes like an agricultural product, is actually selling more than just agricultural products! Since 2006, we've poured all our energy into conveying and presenting the true value of the Taiwanese lifestyle through ordinary, simple white rice. This includes the cultural vicissitudes of history, the terroir of geography, the sensory richness of human experience, and most importantly—the Taiwanese people's friendly attitude towards the land.

In essence, Zhang Sheng Grains is a brand that sells the "Taiwanese lifestyle." The medium is the land itself—perhaps imperfect, perhaps even regrettable...and thus, authentic agricultural creations.

In our eyes, the value of crops goes beyond simply providing sustenance; they are creations of the earth, born from the interaction between humanity and nature.

It's an undeniable fact that ancient human civilizations flourished along the banks of great rivers, because only such land could nurture human life—this is the origin of agriculture. Therefore, our pictographic writing system, beginning with the recognition of insects, fish, birds, beasts, the sun, moon, mountains, and rivers, inscribes a promise across the universe to endure with the environment. Agriculture is a natural culture and a source of creativity.

We have explored for a long time, attempting to create a new paradise from this precious value. Finally, we have transformed "Zhang Sheng Grain" into a publisher that "publishes" the works of agricultural authors. Farmers focus intently on each harvest, like writers cultivating their words; the design, packaging, marketing, and planning are handled by dedicated professional teams! And these producers of labor remain the owners of the food. This is our belief in "benefiting the nation through agriculture." The long road is dedicated to the distant horizon; at this moment, we have only just begun our journey.

"Protecting the grain" is a call, a blessing, our promise to the land and its inhabitants. On June 6, 2006, a sudden afternoon of foehn winds swept across the coast, reaching 36 degrees Celsius.

This day next year, we do not yet know.

Agriculture, through its flavors, records the unintentional power of nature.

And you will never encounter the same flavor again, never.

On some unknown day, I suddenly understood that agriculture is an "accident" of the earth; even day after day, year after year, we will not harvest the same results.

Agriculture reflects the impermanence of life. When we enjoy food at the table, can we taste the marks and wisdom that nature has deeply etched into the ingredients?

Just like on June 6th, the grains, with their distinct sweetness, recorded the power of the 36°C foehn wind.

In September, the second phase of rice will await the autumn wind, preparing for pollination and grain formation; whether the wind comes is one thing, whether it doesn't will be another. The romance and cruelty of farming: farmers standing by the fields, listening to the wind, cultivate each harvest of rice, grains, vegetables, and fruits with the temperament of nature. But do we, the diners, truly understand?

It turns out that a gust of wind in nature—Haruki Murakami wrote "The Song of the Wind"; George Winston inspired the piano piece "The Four Seasons"—and gifted farmers capture nature's "imperfections," creating countless "accidental agricultural works." We, the diners, standing in the wind, probably only utter such a simple thought: "Wow, the wind is so cool today!"

And so we set off, determined to be the crucial minority.

The result of the minority submitting to the majority will neither change nor progress. This is a "discovery journey" that began with the determination to be among the key minority. We will travel throughout Taiwan to find the natural cultivators of the land, the classic crops they will never encounter again, and the palates that understand these rare and precious flavors, to share with them; and more importantly, to convey people's praise and expectations for food to the heavens.

If we were to swear an oath to a land, that oath would always begin with love.

"Oh Heaven, I wish to be with you forever, until the end of time. Unless the mountains crumble, the rivers run dry, winter thunder roars and summer snow falls, and heaven and earth unite, only then will I part from you."

In the centennial of the Republic of China, we rewrote our brand story, and a long, long time from now...

when we look back, we must see our original intention—to applaud and encourage the people and things that remain beautiful in Taiwan.

Fangfang

All the inspiration comes from a small, square studio.

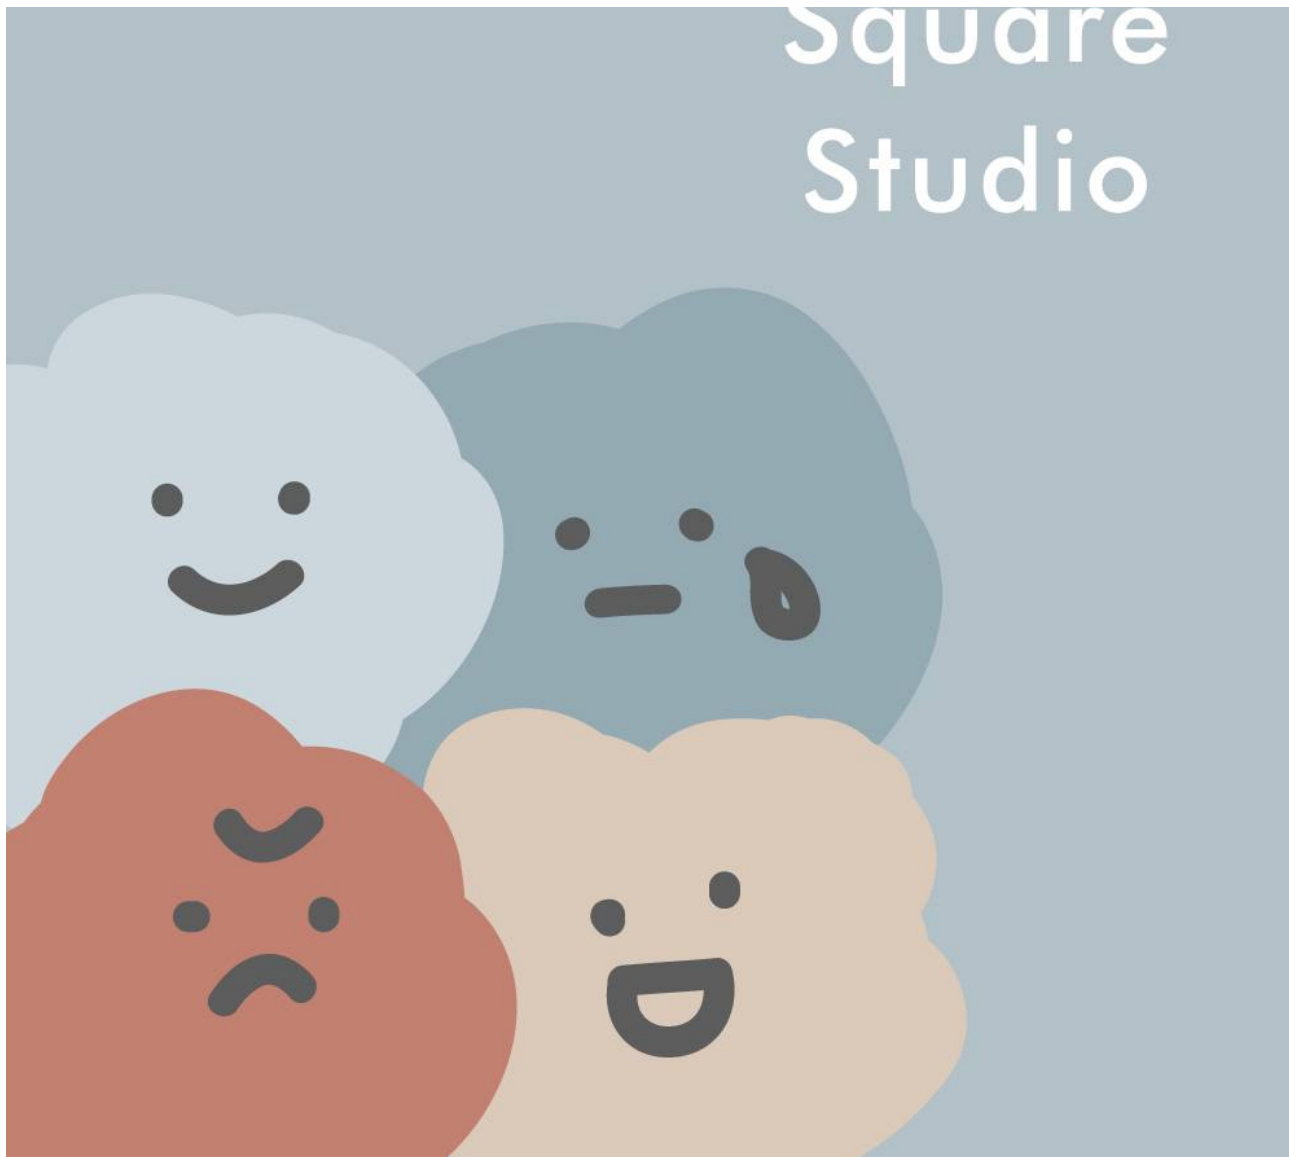

The creations primarily use soft, soothing color schemes, hoping to heal everyone's daily lives in this turbulent world.

The characters created in 2019—"Xi Bao," "Nu Jun," "Xiao Ai," and "Le Le"—are like four adorable little elves living in our hearts, constantly influencing our moods. Their irregular, cloud-like shapes also symbolize the unpredictability of emotions. But no matter the mood, they always maintain their cuteness :)

We hope that through "joy, anger, sorrow, and happiness," everyone can better accept and understand their own emotions. Whether happy or sad, we should embrace them, because all four emotions are indispensable and adorable characters in our life stories!

Design is like a snowball; the more it bumps, the more it grows.

We blend various symbolic meanings and legends into our products, allowing users to resonate with the artwork on a spiritual level. We simplify the complex, add depth to the simple, and make the profound interesting, infusing warm blood into the hard metal medium. Using metal as a medium, we create bookmarks, rulers, candlesticks, and decorative items. We excel at attaching stories to our works, believing that the emotional projection behind the objects allows the products to function more than just as objects; they become memories, recollections, and beautiful symbolic meanings, making the artwork a small embellishment and a blessing in the user's life.

33 Creations

33Creations is a brand created by a Taiwanese resin artist, San San, extending her artistic creations into resin art jewelry.

While pregnant, she developed a resin material that is friendly to creators, leading to the establishment of her art jewelry brand.

In 2017, San San discovered that resin art, a popular emerging medium overseas for many years, lacked suitable and safe raw materials in Taiwan. She spent nearly a year developing a non-toxic diamond resin (DiamondResin) with excellent color rendering, UV stability, low odor, and no volatile organic compounds.

Unlike regular epoxy resins, this resin offers a longer working time and is specifically designed for coatings, applied design, and artistic uses. It has also passed Taiwan SGS safety tableware testing, ensuring safe creation and opening up more diverse new styles for resin art in Taiwan.

Resin art is a fluid art form, where precise calculations of the proportions of raw materials and colors, and the changes over time, allow one to enjoy the solidification process. The tension and fusion of colors reveal the layering of life's changes and processes, reflecting the beautiful transformations of different stages and seasons in life. When color and temperature solidify at a stunning moment, the resulting surprise is like God's creation of our lives—a unique and beautiful blessing.

Through boundless creativity, art becomes closer to life. Her gentle yet resilient works contain unique blessings. Her simple and

We believe that when developing new technologies to solve life's problems, we cannot only pursue efficiency and effectiveness, but also need to consider how to achieve a balance with nature, coexist sustainably with the environment, and fulfill our civic responsibility.

"Xi Quan" is a third-generation natural grass hand-woven shop from Dajia, Taichung. Founded in 1947 by Grandpa Guo Xi Quan, it features hats and mats made from Taiwanese rushes. Now, the third generation has joined, not only carrying on the tradition but also using their grandfather's name to continue his passion for weaving.

In the Xi Quan family, my mother and I are the most passionate about weaving. Fortunately, we have a group of grandmothers and aunties who also love weaving to accompany us, passing on traditional culture and developing innovative designs together.

Three generations of Xi Quan weave, preserving the rich culture of their hometown and making authentic craftsmanship a part of daily life. The simple, handmade feel is a gift from nature and a reflection of their love for home.

Taiwan, this land, has nurtured many fine teas, and its tea culture embodies the warmth and hospitality of the Taiwanese people.

Beyond traditional Taiwanese teas, we also extract high-concentration essential oils and hydrosols from representative Taiwanese flowers, herbs, and fruit peels. Using traditional scenting techniques combined with innovative methods, we create unique scented teas, bringing more diverse facets to Taiwanese tea.

All this is to share the beauty of our homeland with more friends and let more people know about Taiwanese tea.

We also hope that young people like us will be willing to return to their hometowns, learn about traditional industries, and through the fusion of creativity and culture, let us rediscover our original aspirations, return to the land where we are rooted, and savor its beauty.

Having many pets at home and being a big fan of fragrance products, I've learned that pets have limited tolerance for certain scents, and cats require special attention due to their metabolic processes. Therefore, I want to create a product line focused on providing health and comfort for both pets and their owners, based on the following principles:

1. Natural Ingredients: Using natural and organic ingredients such as plant extracts and natural essential oils to ensure the products are harmless to pets and their owners.
 2. Hypoallergenic: Developing hypoallergenic formulas and avoiding ingredients that easily cause allergic reactions in pets.
 3. Gentle Formula: Ensuring the formula is gentle and non-irritating, suitable for pets' skin, respiratory, and metabolic systems, and will not cause discomfort or adverse reactions after use.
 4. Sustainability: Committed to using sustainable raw materials and packaging to reduce negative environmental impact and actively participate in environmental protection actions.
 5. Comfortable Fragrance: Choosing fragrances that are pleasant and non-irritating to both pets and people, such as fresh herbal scents and natural woody scents.
 6. Education and Resources: Providing information and guidance on how to use the products correctly and safely, helping consumers better care for their pets.
- These principles contribute to pet welfare and health, hoping to attract more pet owners to choose pet-friendly fragrance products while also being responsible to the environment and society.

Minnao – a deep tribute to Taiwan's native plants and rich cultural heritage. A friendly, value-driven, and cyclical Taiwanese brand, we deliver quality products to you with sincerity.

The spirit of minnao originates from the Atayal people's affectionate name for the Taipingshan area. Recognizing the beauty and goodness of ancient wisdom, we embarked on our exploration and discovery of Taiwan.

Taiwanese people cherish the mountains and wander along the sea. The birth of every native plant, the confluence of every river—all these nurture a prosperous land, enduring together.

Leveraging the advantages of the natural environment, we connect local farmers and cultural customs, embodying them purely and allowing "them" to be released through aromas and objects; and through the mutual benefit of "raw material supply" and "promotion," we practice respect and kindness towards ancient wisdom.

Ink Finger Silk Printing Studio

Inkfinger Silk Printing Studio, established in Hong Kong in 2012, is a studio primarily using traditional screen printing (silk printing) as its medium. Its core philosophy is to promote handmade silk prints, fostering a connection between creation, appreciation, and sales to achieve widespread accessibility.

After relocating to Taipei in 2021, it continues to provide a full range of silk printing products and services with its professional techniques and knowledge. For Inkfinger, creating something from scratch by hand is always more fun and authentic than simply pressing the print button. The subtle errors that occur during the handmade process, the impromptu adjustments made midway through the creation process, and the gradual layering of colors—all these processes add realism to the work, ultimately creating a warm and unique piece that cannot be replicated by a machine.

This is the "Carpenter Siblings," carrying a dream and a mission, infusing a traditional sunset industry with new designs, new thinking, and new creativity. Be Two Handcrafted Leather Workshop

This is the story of a girl who loves designing bags...

Her mother kept an old, worn-out bag in her closet, unwilling to throw it away. It turned out to be a gift from her father to her mother, a token of his love. The girl redesigned the bag, adding new elements, quietly creating a new handbag, hoping her mother would receive her heartfelt gift. This is a quiet yet profound love between the father, mother, and girl... "

Be Two" refers to the story between you and him/her. We hope to convey your story, or begin your story, through handmade crafts. Just as the girl will continue to use a pen, a piece of paper, and her hands to sew a dream that belongs to her, we are also continuing to weave dreams for you. The story is not over, to be continued!

Bard Cultural and Creative

"Contemporary Creation with Sustainability as a Cultural Heritage":

Crafts, as narrators of contemporary life, have seen their material choices limited in the past, but today, with rapidly evolving materials, they offer limitless possibilities for creative expression. A balance should be found between exquisite techniques and modern materials. To make crafts more relevant to the times, we aim to develop sustainable creation, using crafts as a vehicle and materials as a medium.

As craft culture gradually fades from daily life, we hope to record and pass on one traditional craft each year through craft research. By observing the interaction between people, environment, and objects, we can capture our feelings and engage in dialogue with craft creation, presenting the results reflected and mirrored by our times. This creative approach is not only a continuation of traditional crafts, but also an interpretation and reflection on modern life. By integrating the concept of sustainable development into craft creation, it raises more people's attention to cultural heritage and sustainability issues.

Yuantai Bamboo Art Club

Zhushan Township, nestled in the northern part of the Alishan Mountains, is a small town surrounded by mountains. For over 30 years, Yuan Tai has experienced the golden age of exporting bamboo materials and bamboo products alongside Taiwan. However, bamboo products are now considered a sunset industry, with early OEM exports of bamboo needles, chopsticks, and other bamboo products gradually being replaced by cheaper plastic products.

After returning to his hometown to take over the handicraft factory, the second-generation owner, Lin Chia-hung, began to consider how to transform the business. With the goal of "bringing bamboo back into everyday life," he used bamboo, the most environmentally friendly material, to develop Taiwan's first bamboo toothbrush, providing consumers with a more eco-friendly and natural option than plastic. We develop all our products with the goal of a circular economy and adhere to the principle of zero waste, hoping to change everyone's lives through bamboo.

Hibang

Hibang, derived from the Taiwanese word for "fishing net" and also meaning "hope," is a brand that promotes both sustainability and quality of life. It aims to empower people to live sustainably without compromising their quality of life for the sake of sustainability.

According to a 2018 report by the World Wildlife Fund, up to 640,000 tons of "ghost fishing gear" are lost or abandoned in the ocean each year, accounting for approximately 10% of global marine waste. In 2020, the Marine Conservation Administration removed approximately 41,000 kilograms of marine waste from Taiwanese waters, with discarded fishing nets accounting for 89% of it. These nets, originally designed for hunting, have become even more dangerous underwater killers than straws and plastic bags.

Yu-Yu Recycling Glasses are made from recycled materials from Taiwanese fishing nets. We aim to promote more comprehensive fishing net recycling by adding value to these recycled materials, reducing their chances of becoming marine waste. We treat all materials as valuable items and encourage people to send back their unused glasses to us for recycling into new products through a trade-in program, thus achieving a true circular economy together.

DoB Light Jewelry

The term comes from the abbreviation of "Day of Birth," signifying birth: symbolizing that each piece is a unique new beginning, thus interpreting the quality of life. The best life journey and reflection, continuous improvement, makes each experience unique and memorable. From the initial "metalworking experience" to the current "light jewelry composite experience," we combine diverse craftsmanship to create a light jewelry sales service!

Each piece is created by our own jewelry designers, drawing inspiration from their life experiences, in collaboration with metalworkers.

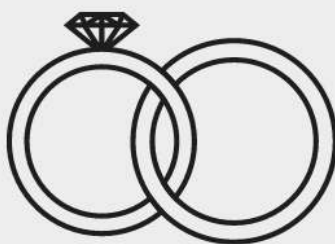

We believe that Taiwanese technology and design aesthetics can compete with those of other countries, emphasizing ultimate design and quality requirements; whether in the diamond series or choosing pearl and semi-precious stone series, we hope that women will personally experience a new kind of "beauty" in the world of jewelry.

Jewelry is no longer just something to be admired, nor is it something that can only be worn at exorbitant prices. Based on life experience, its designs resonate more deeply with the wearer and evoke empathy. The materials utilize semi-precious stones in different shades, using color to breathe new life into the jewelry.

The designs are understatedly luxurious, with delicate gemstone embellishments making them a must-have for every girl!

2USD Two-piece cake shop

2USD uses agricultural products from all over Taiwan to make traditional Taiwanese-style cookies that are natural, additive-free, and emphasize the flavor of the original ingredients. The low-sugar, low-oil recipe and low-to-medium temperature baking promote locally produced, high-quality Taiwanese food.

In recent years, in response to the government's low-carbon, environmentally friendly, and energy-saving policies, the company adheres to the "One More, Three Less" principle, using unprinted, uncolored cardboard boxes made from recyclable pulp for packaging, contributing to the sustainability of the planet and taking a greater responsibility for the environment for future generations.

Established in 2019, the company's own brand was selected as one of the featured brands at the Taipei Design Awards' "Taipei Design Lifestyle" event, gaining popularity and a large following among young people. We insist on low-sugar, low-oil, and medium-low temperature baking. The appearance design uses intuitive imagery and a minimalist style to express the brand characteristics and product content.

The minimalist fabric floral patterns are inspired by the scenery of various cities in Taiwan. Some scenes that we might not have noticed, such as the lines of tin shacks or the mottled edges of walls eroded by rain, are all sources of inspiration for the patterns. The unique fabric floral patterns successfully express the brand's creative characteristics and are applied to the minimalist collection, including clothing, hats, bags, and home furnishings.

Bringing wealth and good fortune

The Origin of the Traditional Wealth-Attracting Three-Legged Toad Legend has it that a greedy toad spirit robbed people of their wealth, causing widespread resentment. The Jade Emperor, upon learning of this, sent Han Xiangzi, one of the Eight Immortals, to earth. Han Xiangzi lured the toad out with his flute, and after a great battle, subdued it, removing one of its hind legs to prevent further trouble. The toad spirit reformed, using the stolen money to help the poor, and this became the "Wealth-Attracting Three-Legged Toad." "Attracting Wealth and Good Fortune" reimagines the traditional wealth-attracting toad with modern design aesthetics. The three axes represent three auspicious symbols of the East.

Z-axis: 8 (homophone for "prosperity")

Top view: Resembling the homophone for "8" (prosperity). With hard work and a bit of luck, you can quickly accumulate your first pot of gold.

Y-axis: Treasure Bowl: Gathering Treasure

Side View: Resembles a treasure bowl. After accumulating the first pot of gold, money accumulates, wealth multiplies, leading to the second pot of gold.

X-axis: Ruyi Pattern: Ruyi (Auspicious Symbol) Front View: Resembles the traditional Ruyi pattern. "Money isn't everything, but you can't do without it." Use money wisely for meaningful things; good health leads to a blessed and fulfilling life.

Xiao Creative Team firmly believes, "Where there's belief, there's power."

Simple Real

Having spent nearly fifteen years in the tech industry, visited over 50 countries, and lived in over 100 cities, my most vivid memories are of airports, hotels, and meeting rooms. But I always felt life shouldn't be just like that.

I enjoy my work; work is a part of life. Happiness lies in achieving a balance between work and life. However, when a busy workday becomes the norm, and I'm pushed along by work from the moment I wake up, I suddenly realize that my ability to perceive life is gradually diminishing. Looking back, the most genuine joy and emotion in my life often come from simple things and life experiences.

I decided to leave my increasingly burnt-out job, rediscover my sensitivity, do what I love, and integrate life into my work. Therefore, I founded the brand Simple Real!

Life should be simple, and emotions need to be real.

Founded in 2017, "1 More Point" started with Taiwanese craft watches, combining local artisans to create unique artistic gems. The "1 More Point" brand has repeatedly achieved excellent results, winning the German Design Award and multiple international patents.

The question "What time is it?" is actually a friendly greeting in Hakka, and it's also the beginning of the message we want to convey. As children, we were often called by our mothers, "It's past 1 a.m.? Aren't you home for dinner?" We started with the home as our central theme, and ultimately, we found a common setting: the dining table.

There are 62 fundamental particles in the world, and the 62nd one is known as the "God particle." It silently interacts with the other 61 particles, causing matter to generate mass, which in turn creates the world we live in.

Our role is like that 62nd particle, shuttling between art, culture, and life, hidden beneath this vast platform, striving to materialize creativity, penetrating into daily life bit by bit, promoting sharing between people, bridging distances, and helping more artists and creative workers to dedicate themselves to creation.

My things

Captivated by the warmth and texture of hand-molding, I wanted to offer the public jewelry that differs from common metal materials—something unique, durable, and fun.

In the early stages of my experiments, I experimented with various clay types, analyzing their properties and durability. Ultimately, I used non-toxic soft clay imported from Europe and America. After firing, this material is not only waterproof and lightweight but also tough and resistant to breakage.

I enjoy the process of kneading and shaping the clay, as well as mixing and combining different materials. Even pieces made in the same style are unique.

This embodies the concept of "my creation," imbuing each piece with a unique soul—items that are truly yours.

Mumu Cultural and Creative

ViVo Creative Design Studio, focusing on the exploration and creative design of soundscapes, has been making full use of the densely packed historical sites, alleys, and cultural characteristics of Tainan City since 2015. Using sound as a detector, it is like a wandering stethoscope, shuttling back and forth in this ancient and rich city: a corner may be a hundred years, an alley may carry two generations, and a family's business may connect the history and present of Tainan City. The research on "soundscapes" began with "Tainan City" and, through modern curatorial and cultural creative design concepts, industrial and local practical regeneration projects, it makes the soundscapes in Taiwan listenable and remembered.

"The sounds we record now may become the history of the future." Based on this philosophy, Mumu Creative has accumulated a database of sound landscape data through years of research. It has not only created a small and educational integrated design for the "Hz Museum" concept project and the design and execution of the "Sound Landscape Promotion and Experience Space," which has won the Golden Pin Design Award and been shortlisted for the IF Design Award, but also created the value of Tainan's sound landscape with the concept of "Three Sounds to Tainan" through the context of sound culture, listening equality, and urban sound landscape brand.

Home / Select Brand / WILD TYPE

WILD TYPE

WILD TYPE is a design brand inspired by biology, using handcrafted methods to showcase the unique characteristics of living organisms.

"You're so weird." "Thank you."

For some, weirdness is more like a compliment. Because in the moment of being quirky, we are true to our unique selves, a little strange, a little crazy, but that's just who we are. And wild type is our expression of "weird, but natural."

Wild type:

The phenotype most commonly observed in natural populations; also refers to the individual with that phenotype. (Campbell et al., 2015)

Contrary to the literal meaning of wild and strange, wild type in academic terms often refers to individuals or genomes acquired from nature, that is, those not artificially induced. Simply put, it means "normal." So let's be quirky in a normal way! Like the creatures themselves, it is both astonishingly strange and perfectly natural.

The persimmon-dyed fabric production process is complex and time-consuming, resulting in a simple yet warm fabric.

Precious and beautiful things require time to mature. What we pursue is not only the presentation of the dyeing process, but also conveying the concept of a slow-paced life and respect for nature and the environment through hands-on practice.

Beryl & Co.

Beryl, an AVPA (Audi Tea Awards) winner

, was founded at the end of 2020. We love the beauty of nature and believe we can present its fragrance and brilliance through an aesthetic lens and literary stories.

Beryl's brand flower is the daffodil (Narcissus) .

In the depths of winter, when all other flowers have withered, the daffodil blooms beautifully, symbolizing good fortune, joy, happiness, and boundless vitality.

Beryl personally visited many small farmers in Taiwan, selecting tea farmers who share the same love for the land and use natural farming methods to roast teas that create a unique flavor for their brand.

Taiwan's best tea-producing regions are far removed from the hustle and bustle. Countless days and nights, we personally oversee the production process and flavor for consumers, ensuring that only the finest whole-leaf teas, suitable for canning, are packaged in eco-friendly cornstarch tea bags. We cherish these quality teas without being stingy, shattering the misconception that tea bags are inferior products. Beryl hopes that, from Monday to Sunday, with our beautiful exterior and rich interior, we can accompany you through the different pressures of life.

The founder says, Beryl Beryl is a narcissistic brand, living a narcissistic life like a daffodil—and that's perfectly fine, because you deserve it!

#2021 AVPA World Tea Competition Award

#100% Natural Farming Methods, Taiwanese Original Leaves

#SGS and Multiple Certifications
#Millions in Food Safety Liability Insurance

This clean, green essence represents our heartfelt wishes. We hope you'll share the joy of afternoon tea with Beryl.

Therefore, in recent years, our organization has been committed to collaborating with Taiwanese creators to explore different facets of Cheng Nan-jung and to explore appropriate ways to engage in dialogue with contemporary Taiwan. Ultimately, this aims to commemorate Cheng Nan-jung and uphold the vision of pursuing freedom.

Zen and Rytter

ZENLET is a Taiwanese team combining design, engineering, visual communication, and marketing backgrounds. While each member has different expertise, we share a common passion and philosophy for product design. Simplicity means better quality, more user-friendly design, more affordable prices, and less resource usage. We believe these are what you truly care about, and what we strive for. However, most products today tend to over-satisfy customer needs, thus neglecting the power of simplicity. Simplifying complexity is not simple. How can we achieve this? We believe that the pursuit of purity in Zen is the best answer. We borrow Zen principles to structure our design. We hope to bring the most beauty with the least amount of design by imbuing it with a touch of Zen. Thus, ZENLET was born.

Original Tainan Nga'ayho Tainan

"Nga'ayho Tainan" brings together handcrafted brands from indigenous designers in the metropolitan area. Founder Angaw Panay from the Zhenbing tribe in Taitung has a deep interest and passion for her tribe's traditional six-strand weaving. Through exploring the techniques of six-strand weaving, she experienced the expression of unique products closely related to daily life, and developed a sense of mission for cultural inheritance and continuation. Her international exhibitions, including those in Japan, New Zealand, and Ethiopia, have deeply imprinted international brand management methods in her mind. Product diversification has become the focus of her operations, leading to the development of earrings, pendants, and other woven products. Furthermore, through the combination of crystal and metalwork, she has become the first indigenous brand in Taiwan positioned as "micro-boutique, lightweight jewelry." Now residing in Tainan, she has also incorporated the works of other designers since the brand was established.

Zodiac Bear is a raccoon born without the black stripes on its face. Although it wears an eye patch to try and be like everyone else, it ultimately discovers through self-discovery that the most important thing is for everyone to learn to know and like themselves. Based on this concept, and using the perspective of astrology, it has rapidly accumulated nearly a million followers through original graphic content, spanning Taiwan, Hong Kong, Macau, Singapore, Malaysia, Australia, and the United States. Leveraging the birthday and exclusive characteristics of each zodiac sign, it has developed merchandise for the 12 zodiac signs, and collaborated with various companies on licensing and cross-industry partnerships, extending into the food and beverage and dessert sectors to achieve an integrated online and offline model, allowing for closer contact with consumers.

VoomVoom Bikes is Asia's first bicycle brand created, developed, and designed specifically for children. It pioneered the "age-appropriate children's bicycle system" in Taiwan: 12-inch balance bikes are suitable for preschool children aged 2-5, 16-inch bicycles for children aged 5-9, and 20-inch bicycles for children aged 9. Every bike, every product, and every activity under the brand is designed with "love" in mind, considering the parents' perspective. The goal is to ensure children ride the correct bike at different stages, creating a happy and reassuring riding experience for both children and parents. TOSMU (Childhood Wood)

"TOSMU" originates from a love for wood. Starting with a single piece of wood, we slowly build up a wall, an idea, and a brand. Unlike the meticulous carving that traditional woodwork pursues, we break free from the framework of traditional woodwork and use simple lines to present the original warm texture of wood. We maintain a childlike innocence, immersing ourselves in worthwhile things, just to present simplicity, purity, comfort, and beauty to everyone.

In pursuit of technological advancement, humanity has cut down forests, extracted shale oil, and mass-produced plastic products. This selfish and excessive development has led to severe water and air pollution, geological destruction, and rampant garbage. The average annual temperature continues to rise, and our planet, on which we depend for survival, can no longer breathe properly, uttering a silent, angry cry! Shatanduoan Handmade Workshop learns from nature, taking natural environmental protection, beauty, and fun as its creative direction and goal! Startup and Joy

My childhood memories are of my grandmother bringing me a herbal medicine bag tied to my wrist during bath time, saying she wanted me to bathe in a fragrant bath. The faint scent of herbs filled the air, and the soaking liquid produced a golden-yellow liquid. I didn't understand its effects until I grew up and learned it contained mugwort, licorice, and lemongrass, which she believed would help her children grow up quickly... This was my grandmother's love. Growing up in a four-generation traditional Chinese medicine shop, the spirit of herbs is deeply ingrained in my heart. 【Grassroots Joy】 captures my grandmother's love, insists on using the hand-tied herbal medicine bag, embodies the wisdom passed down through four generations, and reflects a love for Taiwan. Small-scale, pesticide-free contract farming of herbs, naturally sun-dried, makes for convenient foot baths and soaking baths, bringing herbs into everyday life.

Chimoz

Chimoz is a character brand created by Uncle and Sister U&S. The story revolves around the subway construction, which has resulted in numerous roadworks and holes. The Chimoz, a group of barefoot elves with hairy arms and legs, live underground and emerge from these holes to explore various fascinating things. Their bare feet and direct connection to the earth represent a love for the world, while their hairy arms and legs symbolize being true to themselves. Seven Chimoz travel to various story-filled locations, sharing many touching tales.

● Regarding the UN Sustainable Development Goals, specifically SDG 11 Sustainable Cities and Rural Areas and SDG 17 Partnerships, we outline our approach using (the Chige Tribe brand concept) and (corporate actions):

SDG 11 Sustainable Cities and Rural Areas: Building inclusive, safe, resilient, and sustainable cities and villages.

- Chige Tribe Brand Concept: In the Chige Tribe's worldview, they are originally people living underground. They believe in equal opportunities for all and advocate for laws and policies to eliminate discrimination.

- Corporate Actions: In interpreting illustrations, we combine characters with different national and local cultures, hoping to promote positive socio-economic and environmental connections between urban and suburban areas and between urban and rural areas, and to further our efforts in the protection of global culture.

SDG17. Partnerships: Building diverse partnerships to collaboratively promote a sustainable vision.

- Chih-Mao Tribe Brand Philosophy: Chih-Mao Tribe collaborates with various illustrations or characters, using intellectual property rights to build diverse partnerships.

regularly organizes monthly guided tours and workshops in the Dadaocheng district. Through multilateral cooperation, the company aims to enhance collaboration, knowledge sharing, and professional expertise in sustainable development, thereby contributing to the achievement of sustainable development goals.

Roads are being dug up because of the underground MRT construction. Wherever you go, you can see holes on the ground. For years, the Chimoz, a group of barefooted elves with hairy hands and feet, dwelled beneath the earth. Now, they have come up through these holes to explore all kinds of interesting things. It was a long time ago since the Chimoz last visited the surface. Back then, they had met Taiwan's indigenous tribes. Since both groups shared the idea of cherishing and protecting the Earth, they became close friends. The indigenous peoples even helped name each member of the Chimoz.

There are seven members in the Chimoz family. There's Tokola, who looks like a frog and loves adventure; Makapah has antlers on her head and holds the bow and arrow of Cupid; Kamay is always enthusiastic in helping others, which is why he needs all six arms; Payci is working all the time and her mind is winded like clockwork; Olah thinks about his garden every day, so a flower grows on his head; Falo is an early bird with the spirit of a lion; and Fana, who looks like a duck, insists on wearing a protective mask to prevent himself from breathing in polluted air.

The Chimoz walk around barefoot, developing a close relationship with the earth. This is how they show their love to the world they live in. They have also kept the hairs on their hands and feet because they're born this way.

Examining their own and others' lifestyles, they discovered that everyone has their own personal preferences—which route they take, what they carry, what music they listen to... Therefore, finding a balance between lifestyle habits and changes, while incorporating unique aesthetic elements, became their most important challenge. "Relaxed living," "simple design"—abandoning superfluous decorations, rearranging geometric lines, and outlining a clean and crisp visual feel. Kanari believes in a symbiotic relationship between "people" and "things," observing their interactions closely in the gaps of daily life. "Symbiosis" represents Together + Living, much like how biology describes symbiosis as an evolutionary mechanism, a transformation between individuals to adapt to their environment. Kanari incorporates this concept into its product design, hoping to redefine the essence of symbiosis by adjusting the balance and relationship between "people" and "things" and discovering engaging interactions in product use, embracing the changes brought about by life.

This jewelry brand was founded by two Taiwanese designers. Their collections draw inspiration from astronomical celestial bodies, nature, and energy, using simple brass geometric shapes and incorporating various minerals to condense the universe into meticulously crafted pieces. A strong personal statement is evident, conveying the declaration of each wearer; the jewelry is no longer merely a pendant on the skin, but rather a small work of art worn on the body.
